Dublin Buddhist Centre

Who we are

The Dublin Buddhist Centre is part of the Triratna Buddhist Community, a network of women and men from around the world who are engaged in the collective creation of Buddhist practice that is rooted in the Buddha's teaching and example, yet relevant and effective in today's world.

What we do

The Dublin Buddhist Centre (DBC) lies at the heart of the Dublin Triratna Community and is a place where friends from our Community get together. It is where we meet to learn about and practise Buddhism, Meditation and Yoga, and where we introduce these practices to newcomers.

Many of those who come to the DBC are Buddhists; others don't identify themselves in this way. All are welcome to come and benefit from what we do here.

The Buddha's teaching

Many people in Ireland today are questioning and re-evaluating established ways of thinking and living and find that the Buddha's teaching directly addresses these concerns.

The Buddha's teaching represents an utterly fresh way of understanding the value of human life and how we can best make use of the tremendous opportunity it offers. It presents a path of practice towards increased creativity, clarity and positive emotion based on enquiry, honest communication, integrity and personal responsibility.

Making the Buddha's teaching available

We make the Buddha's teaching available to anyone who is interested, through a range of courses in Meditation and Buddhism, where people learn about these practices and meet our Community.

The Community gets together regularly for Sangha night, festivals, study groups, and other events, where we enjoy the atmosphere of friendliness and taste the benefits of collective practice. The retreats we run offer a deeper experience of this atmosphere in the peace and quiet of the countryside.

As well as these events, the Centre runs Yoga classes where those who attend experience the well-being that the practice brings. We also host school visits and are engaged in interfaith work.

Support the work of the DBC

The DBC is a not-for-profit charity. While we make a significant part of the funds that are needed through charging for our events, and rely on the support we receive from volunteers, we also depend on your financial generosity to do what we do.

The best way to financially support the centre is by standing order. So do please consider contributing to the work of the Centre in this way by filling in the attached form. Whatever you can give will make a difference.

Your standing order will help maintain and develop the work that is done here by providing a reliable income stream. It will enable the continued support of the Centre Team, currently Jnanadhara, Pavara, Prajnagita and Vajrashura, which is vital to the ongoing success of the Centre, and will assist in the improvement of the Centre's facilities.

Increased income through your standing order will give us the financial confidence to extend the range of what we do so we can continue to unfold and deepen the thriving Centre and Community that we have and give people what they need to effect real change in their lives.
